Welcome to Royal Queen Seeds

After many years' experience with the cultivation of seeds in the Netherlands, we have decided to launch a new seed range, called Royal Queen Seeds. Royal Queen Seeds supplies feminised quality seeds at a competitive price. This new seed range has of course not appeared out of thin air. We have over 20 years' experience with the cultivation of cannabis seeds. Over the years, our seeds have won many awards, including the Highlife Cup and the High Times Cannabis Cup. We believed it was time to share our knowledge and seeds with other (beginners and advanced) growers.

Several advantages of Royal Queen Seeds:

- All seeds have been thoroughly tested for purity of cannabis genetics
- All seeds are selected by hand

- Only potent quality species such as the Haze and white species
- All seeds originate from organic parent plants only

The end result is something we feel very strongly about. Good yields, a pleasant taste and an excellent effect of our species is what we can offer our customers, although the eventual result will of course also depend on the experience and the techniques of the grower himself.

If you have any questions, do not hesitate to phone or mail us. The Royal Queen Seeds team will be happy to assist you.

Yours sincerely
The Royal Queen Seeds team

Explanation / description:

Height of the plant: This is the height of the plant after 7 days growth and flowering under a 600 watt HPS lamp (high pressure sodium).

Effect: This is the sensation you feel after smoking this species.

Genetic background: This is the origin of the plant or its hybrid.

Cannabinoid content: This is the amount of active ingredients.

Flowering time: Number of weeks when cultivated indoors.

Yield: This is the number of grams per plant (in a sea of green) indoor cultivation. The yield also depends on the experience of the grower and the method used.

Harvest month: This applies to outdoor cultivation in the Netherlands.

The shoot treatment: The seeds can be kept for quite long if kept cool and dry. Make sure the seeds do not come into contact with water if you wish to keep them for a while, because they will germinate before they need to.

Germination: Germination is possible in a number of ways. These are the two easiest ways:

- 1 Put the seeds between moist tissues and store them in a dark, warm place (± 21 degrees). Sprinkle the seeds daily to keep them moist. When the seed coat breaks and the root tip is visible, the seeds can be placed in the growth medium.
- 2 You can also put the seeds in a glass of water of ± 21 degrees and put it in a dark place (in the cupboard). The seeds will come out within 48 hours. Carefully take them out and put them in a growth medium.

Germination in the growth medium: Place the seeds under the surface in the growth medium at approximately the depth of the seed. Regularly spray the growth medium with water. Keep the seeds warm and moist, for example in an incubator. As soon as the plants emerge above the growth medium, you can remove the lid and water the plants according to need.

Outdoors: do not place the plants in direct sunlight because they can easily burn. Put them in the shade for about 4 days.

Indoors: put the young plants under the lamp for about 5 to 7 days and make sure the distance between the plants and the lamp is 1 meter. Adjust the lamp to 18 hours of light and 6 hours of darkness. Then shorten the distance to 50 or 60 centimeters with 12 hours of light and 12 hours of darkness during the flowering time.

Outdoor cultivation: It is best to have the seeds germinate and cultivate indoors first, and then to allow the young plants to get used to the new circumstances by putting them outdoors from time to time to get the best result.
